OPENGENUS

Letter of Recommendation

Date: 29th September 2019

To whom so ever it may concern

This is to acknowledge that Nishkarsh Raj has been an Algorithm and Data Structure Developer, Intern at OpenGenus starting from 26th July 2019 to 27th September 2019. It has been a great pleasure to work with him and has proved to be a valuable asset for the entire team. I recommend him for any technical role in a dynamic team.

Nishkarsh quickly adapted to our work flow and has made huge contributions from the very first day. He has been enthusiastic and has readily taken up new challenges. He has contributed, greatly, to OpenGenus IQ by exploring and writing articles on a wide range of topics such as using various DevOps tools like SonarQube, a series on shell scripting and web development topics such as CSS positioning. He developed a simple calculator project in Java and used various tools like Apache Maven as a build tool, Jenkins for continuous integration and Sonatype Nexus for artifact repository management in the process. We suggest everyone to read his published work at iq.opengenus.org/author/nishkarsh.

It has been an immense pleasure to work with Nishkarsh and we recommend him for any challenging technical or research role in a dynamic team all over the World.

Warm regards,

Aditya Chatterjee
